Executive Proclamation

Office Of The Governor

WHEREAS, The history of Mound City, South Dakota, goes back to June 10, 1884, when Edward C. McIntosh and his father first settled on the site of the present Mound City; and,

WHEREAS, Mound City is located at the crossroads of history at a point where the trail of General Sully and the 1873 trail of General Custer intersect; and,

WHEREAS, Mound City got its name from the small hills just north of what is now Mound City which E. M. McIntosh, the first Mound City settler, called "bachelor mounds"; and,

WHEREAS, One of the finest hotels of pioneer days, "Central House," was built in 1885 and operated by Eugene E. Vroman; and

WHEREAS, In 1893, C. H. Mewing and William Geier, with the aid of the citizens of Mound City and the surrounding area, built a flour mill and a bank in Mound City in 1894; and,

WHEREAS, Mound City became the county seat in 1884 and continues to be the Campbell County Seat to the present day; and,

WHEREAS, The citizens of Mound City survived winter storms, drought, grasshopper devastation, and prairie fires, as well as the drudgery and hardship of pioneer days; and,

WHEREAS, Almost every citizen of Mound City at one time or another has had the good fortune of experiencing the warmth and generous aid and support of the townsfolk when in need of help or moral support; and,

WHEREAS, The present Mound City will proudly be celebrating its first one hundred years with memorable festivities and commemorations:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. JANKLOW, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim June 15 and 16, 1984, as

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of South Dakota, in Pierre, the Capital City, this Third Day of February, in the Year of Our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Eighty-Four
